Alexandria is also the headquarters of many entities including the Salvation Army National Corporation, the National Science Foundation, the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), and the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC). Approximately 103,000 people report to work in Alexandria each day, a more than 10% increase since 2014. A thriving and diverse commercial and residential community, Alexandria is a great place to live, work, and visit.
